INFLUENCING AND SHAPING THE DIRECTION OF EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND SKILLS IN TEES VALLEY

This strategy reflects the new powers, funding and responsibilities secured by the Tees Valley Combined Authority. In total, the Combined Authority has identified investment of over £100 million for the period 2017-21, for investment in education, skills and employment. This is however only a small proportion of the £970m per year public expenditure devoted to education by schools, colleges and universities in the Tees Valley. It's therefore vital that the Combined Authority works in close partnership, to ensure that the Tees Valley's devolved funding adds value and spurs innovation and transformation, delivering high quality outcomes for local people and addressing long-standing barriers to opportunity.

The areas for intervention have been prioritised based upon consultation and analysis to identify the added value or gaps in the system that the Combined Authority is best placed to address.

This strategy and delivery plan will be considered a working document, which is regularly reviewed and updated in consultation with our partners. It will also be published on the Combined Authority website; www.teesvalley-ca.gov.uk at regular intervals, for wider comment to be received and considered.

This strategy will be an integral part of the Combined Authority's wider budget and Investment Plan.

The Combined Authority will regularly host strategic workshops for partners to engage and inform future policy and delivery for Education, Employment and Skills in Tees Valley. These will be widely publicised and highlighted on our website.

The Combined Authority has established an Education, Employment and Skills Partnership Board to bring together the key institutions responsible for the delivery of this strategy. The Partnership Board will receive regular reports for each of the strands of work, to provide challenge and support, to monitor progress, celebrate success and plan future activity.

"We have a unique opportunity to work in partnership across our region, to design more joined up and co-ordinated opportunities, which can deliver our ambitions for growth and prosperity."

Mayor Ben Houchen

Inspiring our Future

Creating a Tees Valley Careers Initiative - improve and extend high quality careers education for all

Why is this priority?

1. Business leaders tell us that our available labour force is too often ill prepared for the world of work, particularly our young people.
2. Young people tell us that their careers education can often be inadequate and does not sufficiently prepare them for the world of work. They have also requested more modern approaches to support their decision making, including the use of social media.

Careers Education is the golden thread that will enable the economic growth Tees Valley has aspirations for.

Inspiring our Future

Creating a Tees Valley Careers Initiative - improve and extend high quality careers education for all

- There are some pockets of excellence, particularly in our schools, which we can learn from to create a more consistent approach across the region
- The Combined Authority works closely with the national Careers and Enterprise Company to influence the local careers funding available in Tees Valley and to support national work locally.
- The Combined Authority also delivers the Enterprise Advisor Network for careers which brings businesses and schools together to inform and enhance the school's careers programme.

3. What do you think are the current gaps and areas of support needed to help learning establishments delivering good CEIAG?
4. What specific activities or initiatives could we prioritise/extend/support further to address getting good careers education?
